THE condition of the affairs of the Little Rock Rallroad is now exciting almost universal indignation among our merchants and citizens. The CLAYTON ring, which has taken posmession of it, has the audacity to warn the public against contracting with or making payments over to the former highly respectable directors, as if they were no more to be trusted than so whole concern. What fools we were many thieves! The situation is be- to try to beat Yankees and niggers at coming interesting. We suppose the stealing! new directors, so-called, must be "marvellous proper" men, since they can so well afford to throw stones. But rumor says they are of the Romans, that the "white man's the bogus description of CLAYTON Hag" shall be upheld, and be resolved manufacture. We fear the road will beneaforth that every consequence of Jackson, never be completed unless returned to the former control, or to that of men more competent and responsible than those who now have it in charge.
